Learn more about your required tuberculosis (TB) test!

Your Blood Will Be Drawn

- A tuberculosis (or TB) test is required
- TB is spread through the air. Most people do not know they are infected
- People who have had a prior TB vaccine (BCG) can still get TB
- Prior BCG will not affect the blood test

If Your Blood Test is Positive

- You have TB germs in your body
- There are two types of TB:
 - Latent TB infection (LTBI), also called “hidden/sleeping TB”
 - Active TB
- You need a chest x-ray to decide what type of TB you have
- Let your doctor know if you have: cough, coughing up blood, fever, loss of appetite, unexplained weight loss, or night sweats

TB is Treatable

- There are antibiotics that can kill the TB bacteria and keep you from becoming sick
- Taking antibiotics now can protect you and your family from getting sick with TB in the future
